DEDICATION

Because she has urged us on to greater accomplishments when we were discouraged, and helped us live up to being young ladies of Ellis; because she has scolded, praised, and tutored us, as we deserved and helped us to acquire the voices of angels; and because she has always been so understanding, we, the class of 1951, with all our love and appreciation, dedicate our yearbook to Catherine Ann Cook.

FOREWORD

As we walk by Rec Hall, we hear the Glee Club joining in the familiar strains of Pomp and Circumstance; and we suddenly realize how close we are to commencement—this time our commencement.

For us the word commencement has two meanings. First, it is an end, an end to all of the things that have made Ellis dear to us—the Glee Club, those spirited interclass hockey games, the red and green study halls, and even our green tunics and brown oxfords. These are all things we may forget in the course of time, but the friendships we have formed with teachers and girls can never be erased completely from our memories. We have learned much more at Ellis than that which can be found in books. We have learned to grin at defeat and to work in a common group striving for a common goal, and we have increased our understanding of people.

But commencement has another meaning for us. It is a beginning—the beginning of a new life in which we will use all these things we have learned at Ellis. We are sad, some of us even a bit tearful at the thought of leaving Ellis; but we are looking forward to the future confident that our school and our teachers have given us what we need to make our lives successful.

We are proud of Ellis; may Ellis always be proud of us.

Class Prophecy

It is the year 1970, and Broadway is bright with the lights heralding the opening of a new hit comedy, starring Betty Seibert, the lively comedienne, who in real life is married to her third and, she says, last husband. As the curtain rises, Miss Seibert and Miss Bobby Hood are doing a duet, a sister act. They were once told that they looked alike, and have been acting together ever since. From the orchestra pit is heard a brilliant piano duet by Misses V. Byerly and S. Egan. They have been playing Jamaican Rhumba by request for so many years that it is now the only thing they can play, but a great many people still seem to like it. And now a new comedy act comes on. It is billed as Hinkel and Silvis, and as a starter Betty Lou crawls onto the stage with her eyes crossed singing "Ellis Hear Us." Pat covers her face to hide a grin, and they begin their sad little song, "The Whole World Hates Me." Suddenly a hush falls over the audience as down the aisle walks the renowned artist, Madame Claire Fredette. She has just returned from France, where she witnessed the hanging of one of her paintings in the Louvre. She is now very prompt and would have undoubtedly been on time if it had not been for her protege and lady-in-waiting, Cisty Blair. She has the distinction of never having been on time for anything in her life, and it is rumored that she was so late to her own wedding that her tall English fiancée gave up, left, and was never heard from again.

During intermission, we overheard the conversation of two slightly greying old maids. "I had a friend who sang that same song much better at the Met," the baby-faced old lady is saying. Her companion, who doesn't seem to be listening, is softly humming "Abadaba Honey-moon." We recognize these two immediately as Barbara Cook and Barbara Ritter. Now we turn to another familiar face, a very well-dressed, glamorous woman walking beside her distinguished looking husband and surrounded by their six children. As she draws closer, we recognize her as the former Sally Naylor, now the wife of the U. S. Ambassador to South Africa. In the rear of the theatre, a chorus of "Happy Birthday," rings out. It seems that Joan Franklin is having another of her fabulous birthday parties and has brought her guests to the show. She is now a well-known fashion co-ordinator, and the originator of the newest new look, baggy skirts and sweaters and turned up socks.

The orchestra begins to play, and the curtain rises revealing "Slim Horney, the red-headed torch singer, who has every man in the U. S. sighing. A popcorn vender hops up and down the aisle selling her product and yelling, "C'mon, folks, buy your popcorn here." The voice is recognized as that of Ann Tucker, who has graduated from the baseball field to the theatre.

And now the play is over and everyone is going home. As I step into my cab, I hear a familiar voice. It is Judy Yeaton, who rushed up to tell me that she has just received her fifth degree. So far, she has attended Vassar, Wellesley, Smith, Bryn Mawr, and Dartmouth. My companion for this evening, Barbara Roop, has followed in the television footsteps of both Ed Sullivan and Milton Berle. She gave up her world-syndicated column to become the new Tuesday night hero of the kiddies, Aunt Barbie. Be sure to tune her in next week.

Class Will

We, the Class of 1951, do hereby make our last Will and Testament, and revoke All Wills by us at any time heretofore made. We give and bequeath our personal effects as follows:

Clara Blair and Barbara Ritter leave a box of Saltines to Mrs. Zirkle.

Ginny Byerly leaves her Latin notes to Roberta McSorley.

Barbara Cook leaves a broadcasting system to Margot Copeland to use on Monday mornings.

Susie Egan leaves the remains of the poor driving pool to Becky Byerly.

Joan Franklin leaves her parties to Marilyn Crawford.

Claire Fredette leaves her free week-ends to Ann Copeland.

Pat Hinkel leaves her calorie counter to Becky Byerly.

Bobby Hood leaves her Tech stickers to Marion Clifford.

Carolyn Horney leaves a dog to Louise Mulert to keep her company on the way to the dentist next year.

Sally Naylor leaves a magnifying glass to Gretchen Gantner to help her find gossip for the "Patchwork."

Barbara Roop leaves her Fox Chapel taxi service to Norina Dorbritz.

Betty Seibert leaves her over-sized shirts to Carol Kumer.

Betty Lou Silvis leaves her cheery morning rides to Louise Mulert.

Judy Yeaton leaves her conquest of English to Norina Dorbritz.

Signed by the above named testators by their mark, the testators having declared their inability to write their names.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Juniors

We invite you into the intersanctum of that mysterious room on the third floor, the Junior home room. As you look through the key-hole, you can see what's going on inside. In one corner of the room, Louise Fleger and Susan Kyle are discussing the driving test, which seems to be giving Louise a lot of trouble. In the opposite corner, Linda Rushton is protecting her recently operated on toe from the eager feet of Margot Copeland, who is troubled by things coming in threes. In the center of the room, Norina Dorbritz is telling Louise Mulert and Gretchen Gantner about her trip west. Louise and Gretchen wish they could go Northeast and East respectively. The last little group consists of Becky Byerly and Barbara Vaux, who are talking about "Ralph" of the Pirates and "Tim" of the Hornets. Oh, oh! There goes the bell and Mrs. Austin is informing her little charges it is time to go to assembly; so we leave the Juniors for another day.

Sophomores

Ten minutes after the 2:35 bell rings on Friday, seven red caps come tramping out of Glee Club and the eighth, Ghoulab Cohen emerges from study hall singing the "Tennessee Waltz" at the bottom of her lungs. Francis (Mule) Lawrence goes shrieking down the driveway, "I'm off for another haircut," followed by Dumnorix Burlap Crawford and one of her hilarious (?) jokes. Ezzard Nyarp approaches the Buffalo-bound Shady Side Bus which is awaiting her. Catamantaloedis Kyle——CENSORED! Dismo Bartley slinks down the street where the "Bartley Beaux" await her. Onomatopoeia Copeland and Cweaser McSorley bid a fond farewell to their luckier classmates and trudge wearily to Friday Afternoon "Study Hall" for one hour of Latin——(or is it Greek?)

Freshmen

The class of 1954 is one of the largest and most enthusiastic classes in the school. Its members are well represented in all parts of school life, from the honor roll, of which they usually constitute the majority, to the various teams. The Freshmen have their share of musicians, would-be actresses, camera fiends, and linguists, who take part in all the extra curricular activities. They are also prominent in school athletics, and will add a great deal to varsity teams next year.

Dear Dudes
I have always thought your year

books were kind stupid
so I try to say what I want to write. At first a bit scared at the thought of becoming "older girls," we found the merit system discouraging and detention a prospect for many Friday afternoons! But now under the sympathetic guidance of Miss Thatcher, we have approached the standards of the upper-classmen.

Our interests are many and varied, while some of us discuss the last Shady Side game, others talk about a coming Latin test. A few more ambitious classmates try to discover what happened to the pictures they took in Camera Club, and there is much debate over what movie is coming next to East Liberty. I know Three new girls have joined our ranks: Julia, Linda and Helen, and we are very happy to welcome them.

Student Council

Virginia Byerly President

Suzanne Egan Secretary

This year, the Student Council has again devoted most of its efforts to strengthening the honor system in Ellis. We hope that someday soon the honor study hall will become part of the many Ellis traditions and that it will finally include the whole upper school.

The Council also worked with representatives of the faculty on problems where the students' point of view was important. In this way, the Council helped to make the school year more profitable and enjoyable to both the student body and the faculty.

The Ellis Guild

The Guild is an organization whose main purpose is to raise and donate money to worthwhile charities. In the fall, grades eight through twelve each elect a representative to speak for their class. Like any organization, the Guild has a president and officers.

Each May the Guild sponsors a fair. Every class in the school decorates a booth which carries out the theme of the fair. The money raised by this event is held until the following fall when, in a large Guild assembly of the whole school, plans are made for its distribution among the charities.

The Ellis Guild is an organization which includes all three divisions of the school: the lower, the middle, and the upper. Thus every girl can have a part in its outstanding work.

Chi Eta Phi

Chi Eta Phi is a non-denominational religious group here at Ellis which meets every other Wednesday. Chi, Eta, and Phi are the Greek letters for "C", "H", and "P" which stand for Catholic, Hebrew, and Protestant. The group is a new one and was organized this year by a board of nine girls from the four upper classes. Discussion groups are held and speakers representing the various religions are asked to our assemblies. Besides lectures and discussion groups, the organization sponsors charitable activities such as packing gift boxes for the Red Cross. The participation of over fifty girls in Chi Eta Phi is proof of the interest shown in this group.

E. A. A.

OFFICERS

Ann Tucker	President
Carolyn Horney	Treasurer
Claire Fredette	Secretary

Every girl in the middle and upper school is a member of the E.A.A., the organization in charge of the athletics at Ellis. The E.A.A. Board is made up of the president, the two team captains, and the representatives from each class. This board arranges the varsity games, the annual Green-White competition, and the inter-class sports. It also decides which girls have earned E.A.A. awards by their outstanding athletic records through the year, and plans the Halloween party and the talent party.

The Ellis newspaper, Patchwork, appears in its mimeographed form four times a year. It is managed and gotten out by the girls and they, alone, contribute to it. The reporters are from grades eight through twelve. It contains character sketches, fashion and sports columns and various other articles on both school affairs and outside happenings.

Glee Club

Virginia Byerly*President*

The Ellis Glee Club is a very important organization to both its members and the rest of the school. Although, or perhaps because, it requires very hard work, it has excellent group spirit. The Glee Club sang with Shady Side and Mercersburg this year, and both concerts were very successful and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Dramatic Club

Barbara Cook	President
Claire Fredette	Vice President
Barbara Ritter	Secretary
Roberta McSorley	Treasurer

This year the Ellis Dramatic Club has a large and very enthusiastic membership. Old Man Winter has called off many of the meetings but we still were not discouraged as we trudged to the meetings, fearing nothing, every Thursday afternoon to meet with Mrs. Sarver and Mrs. Morgan.

Since it is practically impossible to find a group of girls with one common interest, the club has been divided into various groups. Some study costuming and production, while others may study the actual speaking roles. It was not possible to present an entire play this year, however, the club presented several one or two act plays.

All in all we do have a great deal of fun in Dramatics, and who knows someday one of us may be on Broadway.

German Club

Virginia Byerly President

Norina Dorbritz Secretary-Treasurer

The German Club is a new organization at Ellis this year. It was organized by Mrs. Austin, who introduced Mrs. Bogianckino to help us. We read German plays and we also sing German songs. Gradually we learn the grammar and vocabulary of the language. On some days we play cards and almost always end up yelling "Schumme" which means figuratively "I doubt it." We have really had a lot of fun in German Club and have learned a lot about the German language with the able assistance of Mrs. Austin and Mrs. Bogianckino.

Camera Club

The Camera Club, although one of the newer organizations at Ellis, has one of the largest memberships. It meets every Thursday, when, with the assistance and capable guidance of Miss Tilley, the girls learn the fundamental rules of photography necessary in the taking of good pictures.

At some of our meetings, we discuss balance of scenery, distance and lighting, while at others, we take turns in the dark room learning how to develop and print our own pictures. By studying these pictures, we learn our faults and try to overcome them in the future.

Even though our aim is to learn new knowledge of photography, we have all enjoyed our work in the Camera Club and have gotten from it great joy and satisfaction.

JUNIOR CLASS

Dear Susie. I really don't know what to say except you really have been a super friend this year.
Keep those boys busy.
And be good. See you next year - until then have, as always
Nellie
